Rhino and Elephant made their debut appearance to the learners of B-Sure Independent School in Northmead this morning. This programme has been adopted by the South African Police Services Training Unit. The response to the show was overwhelmingly positive, the children asking many intelligent and thought provoking questions. It has lead us believe that our children are far more aware of the dangers that surround us, than we initially thought. The kids were awesome and we would like to thank the SAPS for their fabulous and dynamic performance, B-Sure Independent School for allowing the programme to be given to their learners and to the two Lt-Colonels that assisted with the programme. Our hearts are bursting and filled with pride to know that we have done the right thing by handing the programme over to a very capable team! Thank you and Congratulations on a programme well delivered!

Getting ready to see Rhino and Elephant. You could feel the excitement building.

Happiness is a day away from the class room. This beautiful little girl was all smiles.

The Lt. Col. explaining what Sexual Harassment is. Again the boys surprised us with the knowledge over the subject.
Each child was issued a whistle and told to keep it around their necks and to use it when they felt threatened.
Blowing the whistle on assault had a whole new meaning when every child blew theirs.

The show begins! — with Brenda "Ellie" and Isaac "Ryan".

Even the teachers were enthralled, the story kept everyone captivated.

Dr. Lion attends to the two sick best friends — with Thulo "Dr Lion" and "Ellie".

Nurse Zebby rushes to help Dr Lion with the two best friends. Injection at the ready. — with Emmy "Nurse Zebby".

Gugu took on the mammoth task of acting out all three germ parts. The kids loved her characters and screamed with laughter at her humour. — with Gugu "The Germs".

Even the little one's were captivated by the show.

As part of the show Networking of safe family or friends was explained.
All the kids had their hands ready and told us exactly who they could tell should anyone try to molest them.

This class went for all green hands. They will colour the individual fingers in later to indicate who they can trust to tell if someone tries to molest them.

The Rhino and Elephant team, performed brilliantly to stunning applause.

One of the SAPS Lt. Col. explaining the dangers of guns and ammunition. The boys were very interested in this topic and we were surprised by their intelligent questions put to the Lt. Col.
